Introducing the 2024 Ferrari Purosangue, the first four-door, four-seat car Maranello ever built and still one of the most sought-after luxury SUVs in the world. This left-hand drive example runs the naturally aspirated 6.5 litre V12, producing 725 PS through an 8-speed dual-clutch transmission and an all-wheel drive layout, so the drama of a front-engined V12 Ferrari arrives with five doors and four individual seats.

The specification is where this car separates itself. It wears Bianco Avus over an Alcantara Rosso FX cabin with a Nero leather upper section, and the personalization pack brings Scuderia Ferrari shields, yellow brake calipers, a yellow rev counter and forged diamond-cut wheels. Carbon fibre runs through the front spoiler, wheel arch flares, rear diffuser and LED steering wheel, while a dimmable panoramic roof, high-end audio, surround view and a front suspension lifter look after everyday use.

For anyone searching for a left-hand drive Ferrari for sale in Japan, this one carries an advantage beyond its specification. It is sourced through a Ferrari Approved dealer, so the car has been inspected and certified by Ferrari's own network before being offered for sale. Available now for worldwide export from Japan, with Elegant Import & Export managing documentation and shipping.
